Clinical Research Associates New Zealand

More medical breakthroughs. More clinical disciplines. More lives saved in more countries. As one of the world's largest drug development services companies, with centres of excellence around the globe, there's nowhere better to stretch the boundaries of clinical research than here at Covance. What's more, with training and career opportunities spanning the therapeutic spectrum, it's the perfect place to stretch yourself too.

This is a chance to make a real impact. Overseeing project implementation and site administration, you'll be a driving force behind a host of key clinical studies. As such, your role will be a diverse and often mobile one - we're looking for a professional with a relevant degree/qualification plus at least two years' clinical research monitoring experience and a valid driver's licence. If you can combine that with proven organisation, supervision and people skills, we'll provide a generous remuneration package and all the support you need to develop your career within our innovative international organisation.
